Information on the WEEE Directive 2012/19/EU

Meaning of the crossed-out wheelie bin symbol

All our electronic devices (bottle warmers, baby food warmers, sleep aids) are marked with the crossed-out wheelie bin symbol.

The crossed-out wheelie bin symbol means that you are legally obliged to dispose of these devices separately from unsorted municipal waste, i.e. old devices must be disposed of separately from household waste. Non-permanently installed batteries or rechargeable batteries must be removed beforehand and disposed of separately.

All rechargeable batteries in our products are permanently installed, so you can dispose of the products as a whole.

A bar under the wheelie bin means that the product was placed on the market after 13 August 2005.

Options for returning old appliances (WEEE Directive 2012/19/EU)

Owners of old appliances can return them to the return or collection points set up and made available by public waste disposal authorities to ensure proper disposal.

Personal data (WEEE Directive 2012/19/EU)

All end users of waste electrical and electronic equipment are advised that they are responsible for deleting personal data on the waste equipment to be disposed of.

Information on the Battery Directive 2006/66/EC

Whenever reference is made to batteries or accumulators below, this refers to waste batteries or accumulators.

Meaning of the crossed-out wheelie bin symbol (Battery Directive 2006/66/EC)

The crossed-out wheelie bin symbol means that you are legally obliged to dispose of batteries or accumulators separately from unsorted municipal waste, i.e. they must be disposed of separately from household waste. If batteries or accumulators contain more than 0.0005% mercury by weight, more than 0.002% cadmium by weight or more than 0.004% lead by weight, they are marked with the chemical symbols of the metals (Hg, Cd, Pb) for which the limit value is exceeded.

Options for returning batteries or accumulators (Battery Directive 2006/66/EC)

Owners of batteries or accumulators can return them free of charge after use to the return or collection points set up and made available by public waste disposal authorities or directly to retailers to ensure proper disposal.

Waste prevention measures and measures to prevent littering (Battery Directive 2006/66/EC)

Reduce battery waste as much as possible by using batteries with a longer service life or rechargeable batteries. Do not simply leave batteries or battery-powered electrical and electronic equipment lying around and thus avoid littering the environment – for the protection of our children.

Options for preparing used batteries for reuse (Battery Directive 2006/66/EC)

Check the possibility of recycling used batteries.

Potential effects of the substances contained in batteries on the environment and human health (Battery Directive 2006/66/EC)

Batteries and accumulators may contain substances that have a potentially negative impact on human health and the environment. Lithium-containing batteries in particular must be handled with care due to the specific risks they pose, such as fire hazard or risk of swallowing in the case of button cells.

Importance of separate collection and recycling (Battery Directive 2006/66/EC)

The separate collection and recycling of batteries and accumulators make an important contribution to reducing the burden on the environment and preventing health hazards.
